

Keynote Speaker

Dr Hidenori Isami

National Institute of Technology (N.I.T.), Tokuyama College, Japan

---

Hidenori Isami is currently the President of National Institute of Technology (N.I.T.), Tokuyama College, Japan. He received Bachelor of Engineering in 1978, Master of Engineering in 1980 and Doctor of Engineering in 1986 from Kyoto University, Japan. He researched on ultimate strength of steel structures and landscape design of bridges and cities at the Civil Engineering, N.I.T., Kochi College, Japan from 1983 to 2014. Then, for two years from 2015, he planned, designed and managed several activities for quality guarantee of education in the KOSEN educational reform at Educational Research Office, N.I.T., Hachioji, Japan.

Plenary Session    Educational Reform in KOSEN, Japan

Dr Hidenori Isami

National Institute of Technology (N.I.T.), Tokuyama College, Japan

---

The National Institute of Technology (KOSEN) in Japan has been working on drastic changes for quality guarantee of education in order to clarify the learning contents and learning outcomes to society. This presents an overview on the KOSEN educational reform in these past several years.